BLOODY FUN.

AN INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF IT

Havana, Nov. 14.—On Monday, the 7th, the Prussim war steamer Meteor, carrying three guns, and the French war steamer Bontett, currying five, entered this harbori. The Meteor west out again after the French mail steamer howan Monde had salled, but the mall steamer immediately returned, fearing capture. On the night of the Sith the Bouvette left, but waited outside for the German war vesrel. After the expiration of wenty-feur hours, the time prescribed by law, the Meteor followed.

A naval duel had been arranged between the officers before starting. The Spakush war steamer Hermande Cortes accompassied the two vessels as unpire. The Meteor had a crew of sixty men and Bouvette eighty. The Bouvette was ten miles beyond the offing. House the coming out of the Meteor she forms and the offing.

Regarding the elections, Crosswell says:
"The result has not surprised me, though of course I am disappointed in Maryland. I ascribe the loss of that State to the energetic canvass made by the Democrate, who brought out their entire strength, including voters tbirty years, and to the jealousy or prejudice of a large number of persons who have previously voted against the Democracy, but who last Tuesday voted against the negroes. Some of them will learn before next year that it will not burt them to vote their own sentiments even if these sentiments are also voted for by the black man. What I told you about the defection of white voters to the party I know to be true from personal observations."

He was asked—How do you view the result at large as directly affecting the Administration?

The Boston Advertiser complains that "a recent issue of the Mobile Register contained a column and a half of editorial paragraphs, seventeen in number, and each one of them filled with the most violence of Congress, this Administrasuch one of them filled with the most vic-lent abuse of Congress, this Administra-tion and the Republican party." It is a shame that the Register should speak am unkind word of anything so pure and immaculate and virtuous as Congress, the Administration and the Republican party.

The admirers of President Grant predicted that he would give the country an administration free from the influence of corrupt politicians and distinguished for civil-service reform. However honest his intentions may have been, he soon found that he could not keep all the government patronage in his own family. He was compelled to divide with the politicians, and was easily taught by them that a reform of the civil service would not suit those upon whom he must rely for a renomination. This is why he displaced his single reforming Secretary, and all men know it. The case he too plan to admit of evasion or explanation. How a remarkably competent and honest old functionary lost the confidence of General Grant, after holding his position in the Land Office undisturbed and unsuspected through a long period of political mutation, is told by an earnest Radical, Col. Dons Piart, in the columns of an everloyal journal, the Cincinnati Commercial. We publish this development as an act of justice to a man held up as an object of We publish this development as an act of justice to a man held up as an object of suspicion by the President of the United States. It seems that Mr. Wilsox, with a simple-minded respect for law which has kept him poor during a long tenure of office in Washington, neglected an opportunity, in writing out a Congressional act, in which, by a slip of his pen, he might have disposeceed a great many common people and conterred a valuable estate upon the President's father-in-law, and, ultimately, upon the President himself. The old fallow was so addicted to the antiquated routine of former Administrations that he totally neglected the official etiquette concerning loyal presents, and thereby forfeited the confidence and the good will of a President for the first time good will of a President for the first time good will of a President for the first time

Voices from the Northwest. We commend to our feaders this morn-ing two very significant and suggestive articles from the St. Louis Democrat and articles from the St. Louis Democrat and the Chicago Tribune. These journals have been the leaders and exponents of a pre-pondezent element in the Northwest for years, and when such papers make a direct issue with the Administration and the Eastern Regency of their party, and are sustained by the tone of its entire Western press we may look out for a new Western press, we may look out for a new Western press, we may look out for a new political conflict, which will not be child's play by any means. What remains of the war when General Lorestreet and other Confederates are Republican officeholders? What remains of the acgro question when the negro is a voter and a fully-invested citizen under-both Federal and State constitutions? Why should LYMAN TRUMEBULL or any other old free-trade Democrat allow farmer GREERS to lead him by the nose to the support of tariff robberies such as were never dreamed of in their former controsupport of tarin robbertes such as were never dreamed of in their former contro-versies? It is because we have believed such leading impossible that we have urged Democrats to cease all vain growl-ing about dead issues and address them-selves to the quick and all-absorbing ques-tions of the present. With an enormous debt and a vearly taxation of more than debt and a yearly taxation of more than four hundred millions to provide for, financial questions must take prece-dence of all others in this practical Caswell to be in a state of insurrection.

The Last Ten Years.
The decade which closes with the current year has been crowded with great military and political events. There were more startling situations and more warlike rent year has been crowded with great military and political events. There were more startling situations and more warlike activity during a part of the first Naro-Leon's career, but they beloused to a great international row kicked up by the bullying enterprise of one ambitions soldier. For momentous crises and great changes produced by deep-seated national sentiments and popular movements, no ten years of this century equals that which is now closing. France, Spain, Italy, Austria, Russia, Prussia, America and the British Empire, the great nations and the beremost races of modern times, have all in that time been concerned in events that will afford grand themes to the future historian and fruitful texts to the future philoshopher. In South America an independent nation has been absorbed and almost depopulated by the power of Brazil. France has crowned an Austrian prince Emperor of Mexico, whom the Mexicans have dethroned and executed, and his widow is now a maniac. In Russia, serfdom, a prehistoric institution, has been abolished, and in our own country a grantic sectional war has resulted in the emancipation and entran-chisement of millions of the African race without overthrowing our republican form of government. England has voluntarily disestablished the Anglican Church in disestablished the Anglican Church in Ireland, after hundreds of years of vain effort to convert that monument of con-quest into a seminary of loyalty. Old Spain has dethroned the last of the Bourspain ans activined the last of the Bour-bons, and now shows her contempt of le-gitimacy by inviting candidates for royalty to appear in a sort of competitive exami-nation conducted by the representatives of her people. Poor trampled perceled-out Ifally has found union and strength in revolution and war, and out of strength in revolution and war, and out o the remnants of her ancient greatness has the remnants of her ancient greatness has constructed a free and powerful monarchy. An Ecumenical Council has convened in Rome, and though it formally sauctioned the dogma of infallibility, the returning members do not reach their homes before members do not reach their homes before Italy wrests all temporal power from the Pope and annexes Rome and the Papal States to the dominions of an excommunicated king. From the first rank of power in which she appeared as the mistress of Italians, Germans and Sclaves, Austra. has been roduced, has been driven from Italy and from the German Confederation, and, from the most deepotic, has become the freest monarchy in Europe. Prussia. and, from the most despotic, has become the freest monarchy in Europe. Prussis, from a subordinate position, has grown to be the first military power in the world, has dismembered Denmark, humbled Austrin, absorbed the whole power of Germany, invaded Francs, imprisoned the grand armies and the Emperor, and now besiges the capital of the prondest, and, hitherto, the most victorious nation in the world. What other ten years can show such a catalogue of events?

such a catalogue of events? Coal on the Lower Ohio, Nearly twenty years ago we were told by one of the most sagacious iron manu-facturers of the country that the two most favorable points for the extensive manufacture of iron were, the one near the smelting coal about Hawesville and Cansmetting coal another havestine and can neiton, and the other on the Mississippi and most convenient to the rich iron de-posits h Missouri; and that not many years would elapse before there would be a large traffic between the two in the exchange of the coals and from ore by river transit. That this prediction will soon be verified seems quite probable. Some months since public attention was drawn to the "block" cool at Brazil and elsewhere in Indiana, and near the eastern margin of the great Illinois coal-field. Recently it has been ascertained that this coal seam is, with slight disturbances, con-tinuous to the Ohio, near Troy, and there is every indication that it will be found in its proper place, and of its full thickness, tucky. For several weeks past (so triends in that section write us) gentlemen from Cincinnati, Pittsburg, Chicago and Phila-delphin, with a corps of geologists, engi-neers and agents, have been exploring this line of coal in the counties of Martin, Dubols, Spencer and Perry, Indiana, and, as as said, have obtained very favorable leases of the coal under some hundred thousands of acres in this district, and have pur chased two or more farms near Troy. They are very quiet and keep their own counsel, but our friends infer that "they mean business," and that a railroad will soon be in progress connecting the railroads of the Northeast with those of the South-west and the lakes with the gulf. The wees and the arcs with an eguit. As purest coal, fron-ore of excellent quality, with limestone for a flux and the best free-stone for building purposes, and also the fire-clays, are almost always found on the margin of our extensive coal-fields. This margin is mearly continuous in a direct line from Chicago to Mobile. Thousands of eligible sites for the manufacture of fron, &c., where there is a full supply of those materials can and before long will be found on this line. The rail-road would thus be sure of a large locabusiness, and would connect, by the short-est route, sections of different and ex-changeable products and commodities. We also hear that a coal stratum of remarkable purity has been discovered a few miles above Hawseville; that a rail-round two miles in length is now nearly coad two miles in length is now nearly constructed connecting it with the Ohio; and that one of SMITH & PORTER'S SMAIL ourse of a few weeks. Doubtless this stratum and also the "block" coal will be found on the line of the Elizabethtown and Paducah railroad. The establishment of extensive from works on this road would soon return to his city all the money we have expended in its construction. souri enfranchisement "is a measure of justice but not very wholesome to the Re-publican party." Measures of justice wholesome to society are wholesome to society are never whole-some to malefactors. Let justice be done the Republican party be hanged.

Two Chinamen, arrested for theft in San Fraccisco, committed suicide in jail at midnight. "One of them twisted his queue about his neck and fastened the free end to one of the bars in the window. The other one tied a strap of stout cloth about his neck, and fastened it to another bar in the same window. While doing this they stood on their blankets, which were rolled up, and at the proper time kicked them away and swung off side by side. When discovered both of the men were dead, but their bodies were still werns. At naon they were hanging in the same portion, a waiting the arrival of the corocc. "Two left some writing, but thus far no Chinaman has been found who will translate it."

A DISGUSTED parent writes from Yale: "I brought my boy here, an only child, thinking that he might do as well at Yale as anywhere else, but the aspect of affairs has greatly changed since I was a student, not, as it seems to me, for the better. The boys are a deal more cubbish and lubberly than they used to be, especially those of the younger classes. Eridently they are not gentlemen, and if their fathers belong to that category, they must have neglected their offspring in childhood. The reason assigned by the Fresident for his lack of confidence in Joseph T. Wilsou, Land Commissioner, in the confidential icter addressed to the late Secretary of the interior, and published by General Grass, is so extraordinary that I have been at some pans to the matter. The President has said, it or planston of his attack upon the Land Commissioner, that he has had no confidence in him since he was instrumental in the precurement of a clause in the act passed for the benefit of Mr. Dent, his father-in-is w, that defeated the first claim of the old gentlems. It seems that old Mr. Dent was the holder of a claim to lands in Carosdiest, or near there. To say the least of Little Nell, she is a perfect marrel. She has every appearance of telas very young girlish figure, hece, actions and voice, yet she exhibits a versatility, and, withal, a self-possession that would do credit to a veleran on the singe. She is said to be but fourteen or fitteeh—with that we do not take exception, but she certainly has lived long enough to learn all the arts of coquery; she has a charming manner, as many faces as would behoove the most practiced fifty, and, adds to all that, a way that preposesses the audience in her favor, and obliging them, perfores, to appliand what she does or any. We are disposed to speak favorably of the little lady, for, making no very extrawgan; pretensions to a high style of acting, her rendering of the various parts in the play does not invite soher and earness criticism. She is a younger edition of Lotta, and is therefore of a guild that will permit nothing but an apploagetic reception. She is pleasant, pleuant, and attractive, and fulfills sil that one may be a present. Each of her sours, dances, and character, changes was applanded to the cho, and we are content to accept the reception granted her by the house—a very large one for the first night—as a warrant for her excellence in the department of comedy she has selected, and for which she is well suited.

The play is eminently sensational, and was evidently arranged only to give opportunity for the display of her versatile tainsits. The support, however, was noticeably good, Mr. DeGrote especially exhibiting still another exas pile of his really wonderful adaptability to whatever part for which he may be cast.

W. Brumley, a white man, who has been in jail for some time only indeptinent for murder, and william Hail, alias FeberBill, who has also been in dorance vile, for immedime past, charged with theft, were presented yesterday morning in the City Court, on the charge of naving robbed Pat. Doyle, a soldier in the force stationed in this place, of twenty-five doullars, while a prisoner in jail. Doyle was arrested on Saturday night, for orn thenness and disorderly conduct, but, for some reason, the usual custom of searching the person, before the committain in jail, was omitted in his case. He stated that he had in his possession the twenty-five dollars when he was put with the other prisoners, and that Brumley and Hall, discovering that he had the moony, forced him into a cell and there robbed him of the smount named. Brumley being a prisoner under a United States warrant, was discharged, and Hall's case was continued until this morning.

Ball's case was continued until this morning.
